Paid leave deadlines approaching

DEED outlines requirements for Minnesota program

BY SHALON WILBER | STAR PUBLICATIONS WRITER

Minnesota’s new paid family and medical leave program takes effect Jan. 1, 2026, but employers across the state are already facing key deadlines to prepare.

The law will give most Minnesota workers up to 12 weeks of paid medical leave and 12 weeks of paid family leave each year with a combined maximum of 20 weeks. It is designed to cover both short-term personal health needs and family caregiving.

The Minnesota Paid Leave Division is reminding businesses that they must notify employees by Dec. 1 about the upcoming program and its payroll deductions, according to information on the state’s website. Employers must also post an easily accessible workplace notice in English and in any language spoken by five or more employees or contractors.

Beginning in 2026, the Minnesota Paid Leave program will be funded by a 0.88% payroll tax, split evenly between employer and employee, meaning each partner pays up to 0.44% of wages. An employer may choose to cover a higher percentage of the deduction.

According to information on the Minnesota Department of Employment and Economic Development website, Minnesota Paid Leave applies to almost all employers and individuals that work in Minnesota with exceptions for employees of tribal nations or the federal government and self-employed individuals who choose to provide their own coverage for themselves.

“Paid Leave will help us build on Minnesota’s standing as one of the best states for children and families,” said Matt Varilek, DEED commissioner, in an Oct. 22 update on the state website. “Employers play a critical role in ensuring the smooth launch of the new program so that Minnesotans can take the time they need for the moments that matter most.”

When the program starts, employees applying for leave will need a certification form completed by a health-care or service provider, similar to federal Family and Medical Leave Act paperwork. Those forms are already available online through DEED and the state of Minnesota.

The program covers nearly all Minnesota workers, including part-time employees and most seasonal staff. Employers in hospitality industries may apply for a seasonal designation exempting certain positions, but approval is required.

Self-employed workers and independent contractors are not automatically covered but may opt in.

To help employers and individuals prepare, Minnesota Paid Leave officials are hosting webinars. “Intro to Paid Leave” is noon to 1 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 13, and “Paid Leave for New and Expecting Parents” is noon to 1 p.m. Dec. 4.

Recordings from recent sessions covering topics like payroll taxes, hospitality employment and health-care provider responsibilities are available on the Minnesota Paid Leave website.

Employers who plan to use an equivalent private plan instead of the state program must submit a substitution request by Nov. 15 for coverage starting the first quarter of 2026.

Municipalities, local government entities, religious organizations, non-profits and agricultural employers are all required to participate in Minnesota Paid Leave, according to DEED.

NEWS BRIEFS

Homestead applications due

ST. CLOUD — Property owners in Stearns County who have purchased or moved into a new home within the past year have until Dec. 31 to file a homestead classification application with the Stearns County Assessor’s Office. The property tax homestead classification may affect the amount of taxes a property owner will pay in 2026 and may also affect the taxpayer’s eligibility for a property tax refund.

A homestead application should be submitted to the county assessor if the use of the property owned or occupied by a qualifying relative has changed during the past year. A qualifying relative for both agricultural and residential homestead purposes include a parent, stepparent, child, stepchild, grandparent, grandchild, brother, sister, uncle, aunt, nephew or niece of the owner, by blood or marriage.

Once homestead is granted, annual applications are not necessary unless they are requested by the county assessor. Law requires notification to the county assessor within 30 days of the change in homestead status due to a sale, move or for any reason that would no longer qualify the property for the homestead classification.

Applying for homestead classification can be done online for Stearns County parcels by going to stearns.co/homesteadapp. If the property is located in the city of St. Cloud, go to the city’s homestead web page at ci.stcloud.mn.us/619/Homestead-Applications.

Contact Stearns County Property Assessment Services at 320-656-3680 or e-mail pa@stearns-countymn.gov with questions. If a property is in St.

Cloud, contact the city assessor’s office at 320-255-7203 or e-mail assessor@ci.stcloud.mn.us.

Bear Paw Wind launches community grant program with $5,000 award for Raymond Township

SAUK CENTRE — Apex Clean Energy and Bear Paw Wind, located at 508 Main St. in Sauk Centre, are excited to announce the launch of the Bear Paw Community Grant Program and the recognition of its first award recipient. Established to provide direct, ongoing support to local schools, nonprofits and community initiatives, the program awards quarterly grants in four key areas: safe and healthy communities, economic development, environmental sustainability, and education.

The program’s first grant was awarded to Raymond Township, allocating $5,000 to support the purchase and installation of new commercial-grade playground equipment. Raymond Township replaced the 22-year-old wood playground structure that deteriorated over the years due to age and harsh weather.

“The Bear Paw Wind community grant helped us considerably in reaching our goal to upgrade our old structure to a commercial grade structure for families to continue to enjoy a safe and recreational environment,” said Wendy Drobny, deputy clerk at Raymond Township.

Applications for the next quarter of the Bear Paw Wind Community Grant Program are now open. Detailed criteria, program rules and application links are available at bearpawwind.com/grant.

Deer season here met most expectations

The two-day deer season Nov. 8-9 resulted in plenty of deer sightings and several parties filled out. Deer registration stations reported the following figures: Froz-N-Food had about 50; Gordhammer’s Food Market in Belgrade took in about 50; Dale’s Pool Hall in West union has 35 registrations; and Ron’s Interstate Standard took in about 80.

There were several eight-point bucks taken, with each station reporting a few deer weighing over 200 pounds field dressed.

Students on the mark when it comes to voting

Sauk Centre Junior High students got a realistic taste of what voting will be like when they get older during mock elections Nov. 3, using voting booths from the city to make the experience more realistic. Earlier in the week, public elementary school students held their own mock election.

According to Jeffrey Ross, junior high civics teacher, students registered to vote in their social studies classes, where they also discussed candidates and the voting process.

Last month, Carissa Rodenbiker presented her paper, “‘I’m Not a Girl’: Representing Masculinity in Slash Fiction,” at the 2015 Sociologists of Minnesota Annual Conference in River Falls, Wisconsin, Oct. 1-2.

The 2012 Sauk Centre High School graduate received first-place honors in the 2015 Caroline Rose Student Paper Competition in the undergraduate division for her research of popular fan fiction known as slash fiction.

“Most people haven’t ever heard of slash fiction, so, in writing this paper, I wanted to introduce people to a fascinating and unique literary genre,” Rodenbiker said.

Government shutdown impacts SNAP

County administrator provides update

BY SHALON WILBER | STAR PUBLICATIONS WRITER

As the federal government shutdown passes the one-month mark, thousands of Stearns County residents are facing the potential loss of food assistance.

Melissa Huberty, human services administrator for Stearns County, said the biggest local impact so far has been to the Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program, which provides federal food assistance.

“In Stearns County, we have about 12,500 people on SNAP,” Huberty said Oct. 29. “October benefits for SNAP have gone out and will go out; however, November benefits, going forward, will not be issued.”

The first missed payments began Nov. 1, Huberty said, and a timeline of when program recipients will receive benefits remains undetermined.

Multiple national media outlets reported Monday that the Trump Administration agreed to fund SNAP benefits at roughly 50% using a U.S. Department of Agriculture contingency fund. Yet, on Tuesday, those same outlets reported President Donald Trump suggested withholding federal food aid funding until the government shutdown ends.

According to Huberty, 7,000 adults and 5,500 children in Stearns County benefit from SNAP.

“They will not get their food support,” Huberty said. “And that has a number of consequences to families who rely on that for their food support, and it does have a particularly outsized impact on the rural areas in any place because there are fewer resources for food.”

Huberty said SNAP is more than an emergency safety net; it is an economic driver.

“It’s generally thought that if you spend $1 on SNAP, you get about $1.50 or even way more than that in return,” she said. “So, what happens is grocery stores get impacted very quickly.”

The loss of benefits also affects working families who depend on assistance to supplement low wages.

“Most people on public assistance are already working,” Huberty said. “If they don’t receive SNAP, they have to take their other income. ... They have to make decisions, ‘Am I going to pay my rent, or am I going to pay food?’ And usually, people need to survive, so maybe more money will go towards food, and now, you have landlords not getting paid. ... It starts to have this downstream effect that is quite unpleasant.”

The effects, she said, could extend beyond economics.

Food shelves across the state are already feeling the strain.

“We’re already seeing that the food shelves are running out of food,” Huberty said. “We’ve been told that by many food shelf providers.”

To help bridge the gap, the state announced an emergency one-time fund to support food shelves.

“The governor (Gov. Tim Walz) came out yesterday and announced $4 million for food shelves in the state and in the tribal nations as well ... to support each of those food shelves,” Huberty said. “So, I think the state’s trying to mitigate some of this risk at the moment, but we already know that food shelves are running dry.”

Locally, Blaine Kostreba, director of Sauk Centre Community Connection Food Share, said there has been added use of the food shelf in Sauk Centre, but currently, she is not anticipating shortages of any kind. However, she stressed cash and nonperishable donations are always welcome.

“All cash donations go directly to the food shelf,” Kostreba said. “We are all volunteers; none of us are paid employees.”

Children make up a large portion of those affected.

“Thirty-six percent are children on SNAP in Minnesota,” Huberty said. “In Stearns County, we have about 44% are children. So, it’s a big hit on children.”

If the shutdown extends into 2026, Huberty said, additional programs could be affected, including Medicaid, senior services and foster care reimbursements.

“We’re required to provide all these services, but we won’t have the funding to do it,” she said.

Each time public assistance has been reduced in the past, Huberty said, there has been a rise in child protection services reports about nine months later.

“When people are not getting their basic needs met, there’s a lot more stress on the families,” she said. “And pretty soon, you have more reports to child protection.”

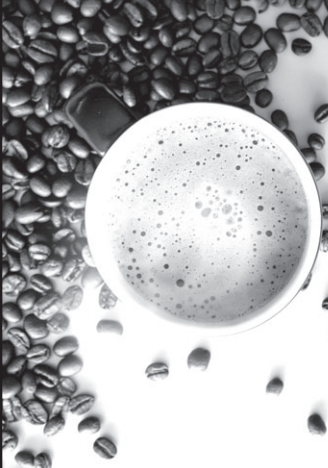

Huberty reiterated that most people who rely on assistance are working.

“I just think, many people think, ‘Oh, good, we’re kicking people off assistance. They should just get a job,’” she said. “And I just want to make it clear that most people on assistance already are employed. They’re just underemployed. They can’t pay for child care, rent, food, transportation, those kinds of things.”

For updates on the federal government shutdown and benefit status, Huberty said, residents can visit SNAP section on the Minnesota benefits government website.

“Calling the counties will not be effective,” she said. “We just go to the website, too.”
